Dorian Wolfe is an AI-generated character, not a real person, and has no personal life story. This is general communication advice for adults. It is not therapy, medical, legal or financial advice, and no result is guaranteed. Always respect other people's boundaries and consent.

PART 1

WHY PEOPLE GO QUIET

You cannot know the reason from the outside. That is the hard part. The common ones:

She is busy	Work, family, life. Many people forget to reply, then feel awkward about it.
She is unsure	She likes you but does not know what to say, or feels pressured.
The interest faded	It happens. It is not a verdict on your worth.
Bad timing	Something else is going on in her life.

DO NOT PLAY DETECTIVE

Do not analyse timestamps or "read" her silence for hours. You will not get a correct answer, only anxiety.

PART 2

THE 48-HOUR RULE

When replies slow down, do nothing for 48 hours. No follow-ups, no "??", no story reactions.

Why	It gives her space, and it gives you time to calm down before acting on emotion.
What to do instead	Go out, train, call a friend, work on your own goals.
After 48 hours	Send one message from the next section, then stop.

- ✕ Do not send multiple messages.
- ✕ Do not post things to make her jealous.
- ✕ Do not ask mutual friends to investigate.

PART 3

THE ONE MESSAGE

Send one message that is light, warm and easy to answer. Pick the version that fits.

IF YOU WERE CHATTING WELL

Hey, hope your week is going well. I saw [thing] and thought of you.

Hey [Name], quick check-in. How did [thing she mentioned] go?

IF YOU ARRANGED TO MEET

Hi [Name], no pressure. Still up for that coffee if you are. If plans changed, that is fine.

IF YOU WANT HONESTY

I enjoyed talking to you. If the vibe has changed, no hard feelings. Just let me know.

THE RULE

One message. If she does not reply, do not send another.

PART 4

WHAT NEVER TO SEND

- ✕ "Why are you ignoring me?" It creates guilt, not interest.
- ✕ "I guess you are not interested." It is fishing for reassurance.
- ✕ Long paragraphs explaining your feelings.
- ✕ Insults or anger after being left on read.
- ✕ "Hello??" or repeated "?" messages.
- ✕ A flood of voice notes or calls.

Anything that makes her feel guilty, pressured or afraid makes interest worse and can cross into harassment. Respect silence as a "no" if she stays quiet.

PART 5

IF SHE REPLIES / IF SHE DOES NOT

SHE REPLIES

Match her energy. Do not scold her for the delay. Keep it light and suggest a specific plan.

> No worries, life gets busy. Coffee Thursday or Saturday?

SHE DOES NOT REPLY

Accept it. Silence is an answer. You can send a graceful goodbye if you want closure, but you do not need to.

> Looks like the timing is not right. I wish you all the best.

STRENGTH

Leaving with dignity is attractive and good for you. You protect your energy for people who are interested.

PART 6

REBUILD YOUR FOCUS

Being left on read stings. Use it as a reset:

Move your body	A walk, gym or sport clears your head.
See friends	Do not sit with your phone waiting for a reply.
Work on one goal	Career, fitness, a hobby. Progress builds confidence.
Keep meeting people	Do not wait on one person. Keep your options open.

PART 7

REAL SCENARIOS

SCENARIO 1: MATCH GONE QUIET AFTER 3 DAYS

YOU
Hey, hope your week is going well. Still up for that coffee?

SHE
(no reply for a week)

Do not send more. Move on. This match was probably not that into it.

SCENARIO 2: SHE CANCELLED LAST MINUTE

SHE
So sorry, something came up. Can we rebook?

YOU
No problem. Tell me when you are free and we will sort something.

One cancellation is fine. Repeated cancellations without a new plan are a sign.

SCENARIO 3: SHE REPLIES SLOWLY BUT KEEPS CHATTING

Some people simply text slowly. Match her pace, suggest a plan, and see what happens in person.

SCENARIO 4: SHE VIEWED YOUR STORY BUT DID NOT REPLY

Ignore it. Social media views are not messages.

SCENARIO 5: SHE REPLIES AFTER WEEKS

SHE

Hey, sorry I disappeared. Work was crazy.

YOU

No worries. Glad you are back. How have you been?

You do not have to forgive and fully re-engage. Decide whether you still want to.

PART 8

YOUR 14-DAY RESET PLAN

- [ ] Days 1-2: Do nothing. Do not send anything.
- [ ] Day 3: Send one message from Part 3.
- [ ] Day 4: Exercise. 30 minutes minimum.
- [ ] Day 5: Meet a friend.
- [ ] Day 6: Plan something fun for the weekend.
- [ ] Day 7: Delete drafts you wrote and did not send.
- [ ] Day 8: Update your dating profile photos.
- [ ] Day 9: Start one new conversation with a new person.
- [ ] Day 10: Work on a goal for one hour.
- [ ] Day 11: Write down what you learned.
- [ ] Day 12: Cook or try something new.
- [ ] Day 13: Call a family member or friend.
- [ ] Day 14: Review: how do you feel compared with Day 1?

THE POINT

You are not waiting for her. You are rebuilding your own life so that her reply is a bonus, not a need.

FAQ

COMMON QUESTIONS

Should I double-text?	Once, after 48 hours, if the first one was light. Not more.
Should I call?	No, not after silence. It adds pressure.
Should I block her?	Only if you need space or she asks. It is not a punishment.
Should I ask why?	You can send one honest question like the "if the vibe changed" message. Do not demand reasons.
Was it something I said?	Maybe. Maybe not. You cannot know. Reflect once, then move on.
Should I wait for her?	No. Keep meeting people.
What if she is a friend or colleague?	Be kind and normal. Do not make it awkward.

WORKSHEET

WRITE IT OUT

Write what you feel, then close the notebook. Do not send it.

WHAT I AM FEELING

WHAT I CAN CONTROL

WHAT I WILL DO TODAY FOR ME

CHECKLIST

CHASING OR INVITING?

Before you send anything, answer honestly:

- Am I sending this to feel better, or to genuinely invite her?
- Would I be fine if she never replied?
- Is it light, short and easy to answer?
- Is this my first message in 48 hours, not my third?
- Would I be proud of this message tomorrow?

REMEMBER

Reply speed is not a measure of your worth. The right person makes the effort without being chased.
