THE 3 RULES OF A TEXT THAT GETS A REPLY

Most texts fail for one reason: they are hard to answer. Fix that and your reply rate changes overnight.

1. Make it easy to answer	Short, specific, one question. "How was your week?" is a chore. "Best coffee spot you have found lately?" is a pleasure.
2. Be specific to her	Mention something from her profile or your last chat. Generic texts feel copy-pasted (and these templates only work when you fill the [brackets] with real details).
3. Give her something to react to	A small opinion, a light joke, a choice. Not just a question. Two-way beats interview.

HOW TO USE THIS SHEET

Replace everything in [brackets]. Change the words to sound like you. Never send a text you would not say out loud.

PART 1

FIRST MESSAGES (10)

Goal: start a conversation, not impress her. Keep it light and specific.

1 That photo from [place]. Please tell me it was as good as it looks.

2 Okay, settle something: [tea or coffee]? Your answer decides whether this goes anywhere. 😄

Playful choice, easy to answer

3 Your bio says [thing]. Real passion or a flex?

Teasing, curiosity

4 I am terrible at openers, so: what was the best part of your week?

Honest and disarming

5 You look like someone with strong opinions about [food]. Am I right?

Invites her opinion

6 Quick question, I need a recommendation: best [coffee / restaurant] you have been to lately?

Low pressure, she is the expert

7 Hey [Name], I liked what you said about [topic]. What got you into it?

Shows you actually read it

8 Two truths and a lie. You go first.

A game, instant interaction

9 Your taste in [music/shows] is unexpectedly good. What is on repeat right now?

Compliment plus question

10 I almost did not message. Glad I did. How is your week going?

Warm and confident

PART 2

KEEPING IT GOING (10)

When she answers, do not jump to a new question. Dig into what she just said.

11 Wait, go back. How did you end up doing that?
Curiosity about her story

12 That sounds like there is a story behind it. I have time.
Invites more

13 What was the best part of that?
Moves from facts to feelings

14 Ha, I did not expect that answer. Now I am curious.
Shows genuine reaction

15 My turn to answer: [your answer]. Now yours.
Share back, avoid interview mode

16 What is something you are really into that most people do not know about?
Opens a deeper topic

17 You light up when you talk about [topic]. What do you love about it?
Notices her energy

18 If you could go back to that moment, would you do it again?
Reflection question

19 Great answer. Follow-up: what made you choose it?

Shows you listen

20 Is that a "tell the whole story" thing or a "short version" thing?

Light and funny

PART 3

PLAYFUL AND WARM (10)

Flirting is not a trick. It is warmth plus a little playfulness. Keep it respectful and watch how she responds.

21 You seem dangerously good at [thing]. I might need lessons.
Compliment with humour

22 I am starting to think you are the interesting one here. Do not let it go to your head.
Light teasing

23 Fine, you win this round. Rematch soon?
Playful and plants a seed

24 Your sense of humour is a problem. In a good way.
Honest compliment

25 I was going to say something smooth, then you sent that and I forgot.
Self-aware

26 Admit it, you are the one who always picks the restaurant.
Playful guess

27 Okay, I am officially a fan of [her opinion].
Validates her

28 You have excellent taste. Slightly suspicious, honestly.
Teasing

29 That made me laugh out loud, and I am at [place]. People are looking.

Shows genuine reaction

30 Good morning. I hope today is kind to you.

Warm, never needy

PART 4

MAKING PLANS (10)

A good invite is specific, easy to say yes to, and low pressure. Offer a day and a place. Do not ask "what are you up to?".

31 I am enjoying this chat. Want to continue it over coffee this week?

Simple and clear

32 There is a [place] I have been meaning to try. Free [day] evening?

Specific plan

33 Let us grab a drink [day]. Does [time] work, or is [time] better?

Two options, easy yes

34 I would rather hear the rest in person. Coffee on [day]?

Natural transition

35 Are you around this weekend? I would like to take you for [thing].

Direct and warm

36 I will be near [area] on [day]. Want to meet for a quick coffee?

Low commitment

37 Dinner or coffee? Your pick, I am easy.

Gives her the choice

38 Saturday afternoon: walk and coffee. Yes or no?

Playful confidence

39 That place you mentioned. Let us go. [Day] works for me. You?

Uses what she said

40 Great. [Day], [time], [place]. I will message you when I get there.

Confirms the details

PART 5

AFTER A QUIET PATCH (10)

Quiet does not always mean no. Send one light message. If there is still no reply, let it go.

41 Hey, hope your week is going well. I saw [thing] and thought of you.

Light, no pressure

42 Hi [Name], no pressure. Still up for that coffee if you are.

Gives her an easy out

43 Quick check-in: how did [thing she mentioned] go?

Shows you remember

44 Hey stranger. How is life?

Casual reopener

45 I realise I have been quiet. Work has been chaotic. How are you?

Honest and warm

46 Random, but this [meme/song] reminded me of you.

Small and sweet

47 If you are busy, no worries. I will be around if you want to catch up.

No pressure

48 I enjoyed talking to you. If the vibe changed, no hard feelings, just tell me.

Mature and honest

49 Still want that coffee? I would like to see you, but tell me honestly.

Clear and respectful

50 Last message from me, promise: I had a good time and I wish you well.

A graceful exit

BONUS 1

WHEN SHE SAYS... YOU SAY

Replies to the most common things she might text. Keep your tone, change the words.

"HAHA"

51 Glad I made you laugh. Okay, serious question now: [question].

"I AM PRETTY BUSY THIS WEEK"

52 No problem. Tell me when things calm down and we will find a time.

"WHAT ARE YOU LOOKING FOR?"

53 Something real. Someone I can laugh with. You?

"WHAT DO YOU DO?"

54 I [job]. I love [part]. What about you?

"HEY, SORRY FOR THE SLOW REPLY"

55 No worries, life happens. How was your day?

"HOW WAS YOUR DAY?"

56 Pretty good. [One specific thing]. How was yours?

"I AM TIRED"

57 Rough day? Go rest. Tell me about it tomorrow.

"I AM NOT SURE I AM READY TO MEET"

58 That is completely fine. No pressure at all. We can keep chatting until you feel comfortable.

BONUS 2

WHEN SHE SAYS... YOU SAY (2)

"I HAD A GREAT TIME"

59 Me too. I would love to see you again. Free [day]?

"CAN WE TAKE THINGS SLOW?"

60 Of course. I am happy to go at your pace.

"I AM TALKING TO OTHER PEOPLE TOO"

61 That is fair. Let us see where this goes.

"I DO NOT THINK WE ARE A MATCH"

62 Thanks for being honest. I wish you the best.

"WHAT ARE WE DOING THIS WEEKEND?"

63 I would love to see you. How about [plan] on Saturday?

"YOU SEEM QUIET TODAY"

64 A bit. Long day. Thinking about [thing]. Tell me something fun to cheer me up.

"SEND ME A PHOTO"

65 Let us save that for when we meet. Tell me more about you instead.

Set your own boundaries

BONUS 3

TEXTING TIMING AND TONE

Reply time	Reply when you naturally can. Do not wait on purpose to look busy, and do not reply instantly every time either.
Length	Match hers. One line for one line.
Emojis	One or two, used naturally. Not every message.
Voice notes	Only after you both feel comfortable.
Calls	A short call before meeting is a great idea if she is open to it.
Late-night texts	Avoid mixed signals. Say what you mean.

BEFORE YOU SEND, CHECK

- [ ] Is it easy to answer?
- [ ] Is it specific to her?
- [ ] Is it kind?
- [ ] Would I say it in person?
- [ ] Is it one message, not a flood?

WHEN IN DOUBT

Delete the extra sentence and send the shorter version.

WORKSHEET

MY PERSONAL TEXT BANK

Write your own versions of your five favourite texts. Make them sound like you.

AVOID

TEXTS TO NEVER SEND

- ✕ "hey" (alone). It gives her nothing to answer.
- ✕ "Why are you ignoring me?" Pressure kills interest.
- ✕ "u up?" Sends the wrong message about your intent.
- ✕ Three messages in a row with no reply (triple-texting).
- ✕ "Good morning princess" from a stranger. Too much, too soon.
- ✕ Anything you would be embarrassed for her friends to read.

THE GOLDEN RULE

Match her energy. If she writes one line, do not reply with a paragraph. If she goes quiet, give her space.

ONE HONEST NOTE

No line works on everyone, and none replaces being a decent person. Use these to start and keep real conversations going. If she is not interested, thank her and move on. That is part of the skill.

BE CALM.

BE CURIOUS.

BE REAL.
